Hiram Johnson's Job
No Revolution Here
About Miracles
Air Ships. More Air Ships

By Arthur Brisbane

HIRAM JOHNSON didn't tell George Harvey that he, Johnson, would run for President in 1924 for two reasons. First, if he intended to run he wouldn't tell George Harvey. Second, he hasn't the faintest intention of running. He proposes to concentrate his energies on keeping the United States from being dragged into Europe, either by the League of Nations front door or the World Court back door. That will keep him busy.

YESTERDAY IT WAS MAGNUS Johnson, of Minnesota, warning us against revolution of the Bolshevik type.

Now, to the surprise of many, comes Woodrow Wilson with the same fear of revolution in his heart. President Wilson says: "It was against capitalism that the Russian leaders directed their attacks."

That is a mistake. The Russian leaders directed their attack against the Czar and his grand duke, that dragged the people of Russia into an alliance with England and France, thus butchering millions of them and bankrupting Russia.

THERE ISN'T ANY PRESENT danger of revolution in the United States, no matter how foolish things may be done. But it would be a good thing for statesmen, past and present, to remember that revolutions are usually unsuccessful wars. They don't happen in countries ruled by a benevolent and successfully managed.

TO KEEP OUT of revolution is the only thing Magnus Johnson, Magnus Johnson, and others that fear revolution, is to keep the United States out of European complications, out of the League of Nations, out of the World Court, and build up the United States and its property here in the United States.

THE CHURCH of St. Anne de Beaupre at Quebec was burned. Many blamed the Ku Klux, although nothing was proved. Now is laid the cornerstone of a new church, to be dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Five were miraculously cured on the spot. Others had been cured, miraculously, even before the cornerstone was laid.

AND AT THESE CURES the good religion. But a critic, perhaps a friend of the Ku Klux, wants to know why a saint with as much power did not use it to prevent the burning of the church.

A sufficient answer is that saints and other holy persons have never used miracles in their own behalf. They allow themselves to be burned, eaten by wild beasts, shot through with arrows, unrelenting. And in that way they work their greatest miracles. It was the sight of noble saint Stephen heroically martyring his martyrdom, who stoned to death that caused Paul to cease persecuting Christians and become a convert.

TO gain such a recruit for Christianity was a miracle, a miracle that curing any ordinary disease.

PRESIDENT HARDING tells Seattle he favors a party of first rank to make the United States safe in these troublous times.

That being the case, it is too bad the Washington conference agreed to destroy and junk magnificent ships, yachts, and largely paid for.

WHAT THE COUNTRY WANTS, however, is not so much battleships, which are now mere targets for flying machines, as flying machines to drop the necessary explosives on enemy ships.

A battleship compared with a flying machine is about the same as an old-fashioned car compared with a taxicab.

FARRAR'S NEW MECCA

FARRAR REVEALS PLANS TO MAKE N. E. SOCIAL MECCA

And the social center of princes and kings and artists from all over the world," is Farrar's opening statement.

$5,000,000 PROJECT

And she is. With Major De Trafford Craven, retired British army officer, three financial kings of America, the leading physicians of the country, and representatives of the British nobility, Geraldine Farrar has organized a five-million dollar corporation to build a resort in New England that will be the rendezvous of the great and powerful of the world.

Covering more than 2,000 acres in Lyndonville, Vt., the site and buildings of the famous Vail estate, the Farrar resort will be the only thing of its kind in the world and will lend more social prestige to the United States of America than any single event in its recent history.

The British nobility will make it their favorite rendezvous. French aristocrats, German aristocrats, Russian aristocrats and American money kings will make it their country club. The cream of foreign society is on its way there.

AVIATION SERVICE

Aviation service to New York, Boston, and Montreal, for a drink whenever we happen to want it, explains Major Craven—broader and larger cities of the country, will be established at Lyndonville, Vt., as the place will be called.

"Gerry," herself, will be hosted. Her intimate voice will be given her vast first concert, assisted by other great stars of the Lyndonville. A pipe organ, entailing an expenditure of $100,000, with pipes carrying the sound throughout the 125 rooms of the mansion, has been installed. A sound-proof, lead-lined broadcast room is being prepared for the nightly broadcasting of the Farrar concerts.

Five artificial lakes, the water for which has been brought six miles from mountain springs by private water main, have been constructed and flooded on the land surrounding the manor.

ADAM AND EVE POOL

An Adam and Eve pool, deep in the great maple forest near the manor, has been sunk, where Romance may reign undisturbed.

Abydoswood, a personal gift of the late King Menelik of Abyssinia, to the late Theodore Vail, will be the famous Vail hot-house, grown to be the finest known, will make the location of the Lyndonville necessary.

Under her house, producing red broilers in abundance, with a flooded head of cattle, sheep and other stock, will provide the maple leaf products.

Little paths, lakes teeming with fish, marble swimming pools and an artificial field, in charge of one of the British royal and French flying corps, an eighteenth-century golf course, tennis courts and croquet fields will be among the outdoor attractions.

Winter golf will be laid off for the benefit of winter guests. Frances O'Connor is in conference with Miss Farrar today, finishing plans for the Summer.

"The great wine cellars here will be empty," asserts Major Craven, who is president of the organization. "But Montreal is only a few miles away by plane."

WHAT "GERRY" SAYS

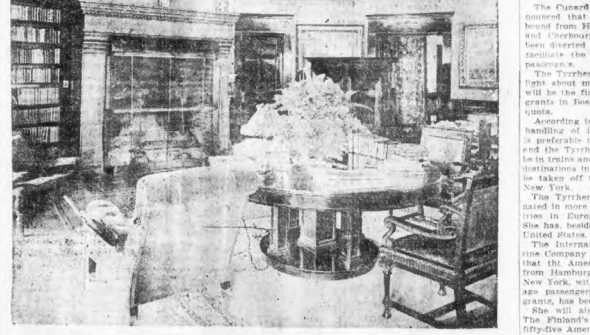

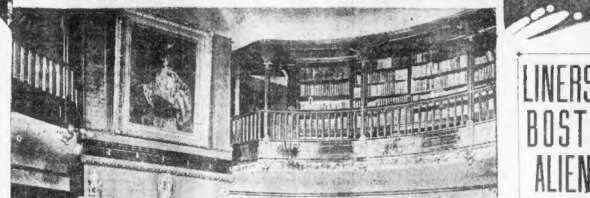

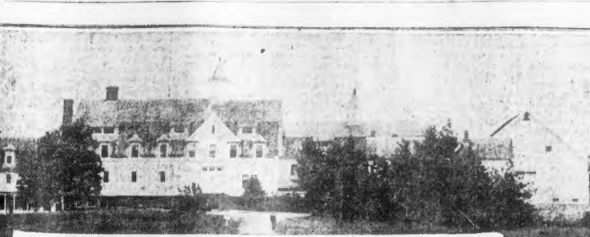

As to the motives which prompted such an undertaking, Farrar says: "I have always been anxious to do something like this. It has been

CORCORAN'S ARREST ENGINEERED BY HIS BROCKTON BONDSMEN

TRAILED BY PRIVATE SLEUTHS

Bailmen Tell First Inside Story of Fugitive's Capture in Blackmail Cases

For the first time it is revealed today by the Boston American why Bill Corcoran, former Middlesex district attorney, was suddenly arrested in New York and is about to be brought to trial for alleged blackmail and extortion, when, for months, it was generally known through the city just where Bill was.

Also it was common gossip that he would never be brought back to face trial.

The reason Bill was "plucked" is furnished by the men who furnished the $10,000 bail he jumped—William and Walter B. Goodrich of Boston.

"We had him arrested," they said today, "sent Pinkerton to get him, because the State attacked our property and started suit to collect. Why should it not?"

"Why," continued Walter Goodrich, "the whole business has been very peculiar from the beginning. To begin with, Bill Corcoran was never a friend of mine or of my brother."

"We never knew the man. A friend of mine came to me when Bill was in trouble and asked me to go to the bond. I was given to understand that it would only be for a few days at most. I was told that most of this stuff in the papers about Corcoran was bunk, and that he was really all right."

"His brother and I, feeling as he has turned out, went on the bonds. Then Bill disappeared. I did not think anything of it at first, for I was assured by him when he seemed to know that he would be back when wanted and that his whereabouts were known by the authorities."

"As the weeks went by I became more worried. I asked many questions about him among his friends and was always assured just he would be back."

"BROTHERS ACT THEMSELVES."

"Then on June 18, last, I received formal notice from the courts to appear at Plymouth Superior Court to answer to an action of contract with the State for $10,000, the amount of the bond. An attachment for $20,000 was slipped on my property."

"Then I began to move. I was notified to appear in court on the first Monday in August. I made no move, and as did not my brother, that we would produce Bill Corcoran or be in the effort."

"After making futile inquiries of the authorities regarding Corcoran, I decided to hire private detectives and go to it myself. I was afraid to let anyone know what I was doing, because I feared Corcoran would be tipped off."

WILL GUARD JURY.

"The detectives went down to New York and got him. When he was brought back my brother and I are going right up to court and surrender him."

"Let some of the boys who knew where he was go his bonds now. I am through."

"I have been told that close to a hundred persons in Boston knew where Corcoran was all the time."

"Precautionary measures to guard against jury fixing, such as is alleged to have taken place in previous trials of the so-called 'blackmail cases,' will be taken by the State at Corcoran's trial, it is learned today."

Measures will be taken to guard the jurors every hour of the day and night, to prevent tampering with the talesmen who weigh the evidence at the trial.

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, when he filed the data of the trial as some time between Labor Day and September 15, had no comment to make on the active circulating about the city that movements to fix the jury as soon as it is drawn are being planned.

District Attorney O'Brien announced that the "blackmail cases" would be heard as soon as possible, and predicted that "the Corcoran case will at least be started before the middle of the month."

Braves' Field
Week's Contest to End
With Awarding of Valuable Cups

Can you swim?
Then, get busy!
Starting Monday at Braves Field there will be a girls' diving contest.

Each prize and cup will be given winners every night. The contest will last one week. It is being mounted by the AMERICAN in conjunction with the BRIVES Field, which operates Braves Field as a vast amusement institution every night.

All you have to do to enter the contest is to apply to the Sports Editor of the Boston American or at Braves Field. You can do it by telephone—Monday through Friday. There will be three winners each night.

Saturday night all of the night winners will meet in the grand contest for the Boston American and Braves Field trophy cup and championship.

Prizes of the contest include a $100 prize and a trip by train to the city of New York, to be given to the winner of the grand contest.

The judge of the final contest on Saturday night will be J. P. O'Brien, Boston American sports editor, better known as "Bill."

You can't miss the final winners. You can't miss the final winners. You can't miss the final winners.

Approximately 4,000 cigar makers in various parts of New England, members of the Cigar-makers' International Union, went out on strike today.

Among this number were included about 2,000 Boston cigar makers, members of Local No. 1, C. M. I. U. The remaining number were members of locals in Springfield, Worcester and Bangor, Me.

The walkout of the Boston cigar makers caused a complete shutdown of four big Boston factories, namely, the J. A. the Harvard, the Elbow and the N. C. A. plants.

The decision of the Boston cigar makers to walk out came at a meeting of the local at the union headquarters at No. 11 Appleton street, attended by over 1,200 of the members. The vote was unanimous.

The workers noted the return of the scale of wages they received previous to May 2, 1922, when a decrease was put into effect by management. Previous to May 2, 1922, the workers received $24 a thousand for ten cent cigars and $15 a thousand for seven cent cigars. The decrease which went into effect was $12 a thousand for the more expensive variety and $15 a thousand for the cheaper grade.

MOTHER'S SEARCH FOR BOY LASTS 9 YEARS

A search for her boy that has lasted nine years and taken her into many States was revealed today when Mrs. Annie M. Whitcomb, No. 11 Larkin street, Roxbury, asked the Boston American to find her son, Maurice L. Whitcomb.

Whitcomb was nine years old when he was placed in the Children's Home in Bangor, Me., by relatives, and was taken to his mother after three years in the home, he disappeared. That was in 1914. Since that time his mother has sought him. He is described as of black hair and eyes, dark complexion and of musical talents.

OPPONENTS OF WAR START HUB DRIVE

Despite opposition from various sections the "No More War" movement was launched in Boston today, with the mailing of thousands of letters bearing the stamp "World Peace, Now, Not War."

The movement, however, was inaugurated in other cities and towns in the United States. The ball was started today here with a meeting at the Parkman bandstand on the Common under the auspices of the Association to Abolish War. There will be another meeting tomorrow at the same place and "Quarter Crockery will speak. Dr. Willard A. Paul of Boston presided at today's meeting."

CLOSE OFF FIELDS IN MID-WEST FOR MONTH

Chicago, July 27 (AP).—Plans for a complete shutdown of the mid-western oil fields for the month of August were approved today by representatives of twenty-five of the largest oil-producing companies in the field. The refinery capacity of the territory is approximately 550,000 barrels of crude daily.

CHLSEA SWITCH VICTIM' RUNS AMUCK

John R. Archibald, No. 1 Front street, Chelsea, who recently accused Mrs. Mary Symanski of No. 24 Pearl street, that city, of "theft" of his car, today had a relapse.

The run about, apparently under the influence of liquor, was an episode down on neighbors, flipping his arms, scolding those and others on by trying to fly through a plate glass window.

A squad of police appeared on the scene and caught Archibald. He is now in jail for 30 days.

A woman, today, with some complaint, submitted to the case of Mrs. Symanski, who "home" is a bit. She gave the lad a glass of home-made booze containing 20 minutes. Whether it was the booze or the heat he is not known, but Archibald cut up and ran about the street.

His relatives, however, Mrs. Symanski, of being a witch. His friends, however, Mrs. Symanski, of being a witch. His friends, however, Mrs. Symanski, of being a witch.

After it was all over no arrests were made, the local police refusing to believe in witchcraft.

3 TRUSTIES ESCAPE TO WOODS FROM CONCORD REFORMATORY

Three trustees of the State Reformatory at Concord escaped today. The trustees had been working in three gangs of fifteen each, under the supervision of three guards. While being transferred from one gang to another, they hid behind a barn, from which they escaped to the woods, about fifty feet away. They were wearing the regulation prison garb. They are: Adolph Redgate, 23, of Lowell; Edward Misset, 25, of Springfield; and Henry Shaw, 27, of Concord.

POLA AND CHAPLIN PART; "BILL" TILDEN IN FAVOR

Los Angeles, Calif., July 28 (U.S.A.).—The engagement of Pola Negri and Charlie Chaplin is definitely at an end, and William Tilden II, tennis champion, is reported to have suggested the comedian to the actress' affections.

Today Miss Negri, confirmed reports that she and Chaplin were no longer engaged, though still good friends.

Two nights ago both Chaplin and Negri were at a hotel social function, but not together. With the actress were Tilden and Manuel Alcantara, Spanish net champion.

SIGHT-SEEING BUS HITS TRUCK; 20 PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

Twenty persons were shaken up and one man injured, when a sight-seeing bus of the Royal Blue Line of Boston crashed into a truck owned by Proctor Bros & Co. of Nashua, N. H., today, while crossing Bedford street, Lexington.

The bus, driven by Joseph O. Lord, No. 29 Villa avenue, Everett, struck the rear end of the truck Stanley Freeman of No. 21 Deane street, Dorchester, lecturer of the bus, was thrown from his seat, landing on the step of the car. He was treated for cuts about the head at the nearby office of Henry C. Valen, M.D. Passengers were uninjured, save for a slight shaking-up.

TROOPS TO TAKE OVER MINES IF STRIKE THREAT PERSISTS

Washington, July 28.—The Federal government has decided to take drastic steps in the coal situation. Unless representatives of the operators and miners get back into conference to avert a strike, the present plan is to send troops to take over the mines.

It is learned from an authoritative source that a member of President Harding's cabinet either is on his way or will start soon to meet the conference who abandoned their conference in Atlantic City and warn them that the government has decided to protect the public by "big stick" action if necessary.

RUMELY GOES TO PRISON IN PAPER CASE

New York, July 28.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the conviction of Dr. Edward R. Rumely, former publisher of the New York Evening Mail, and R. Walter Kaufman and Norman T. Lindheim, attorneys, for defrauding the alien property custodian during the war that the Mail was American owned when in fact the controlling interest was owned by the Imperial German government. They were convicted December 1920, after the Mail had changed hands.

Dr. Rumely and the lawyers were accused of reporting to the alien property custodian during the war that the Mail was American owned when in fact the controlling interest was owned by the Imperial German government. They were convicted December 1920, after the Mail had changed hands.

SMALL DANCER STRONG IN ACTION

Bernice Spoor is the pretty little dancer among the company of remarkable talents of "The Little Dancer" in George M. Cohan's musical show, "The Little Dancer" at the Tremont Theatre. To particularize, she is the one who can stand on one Bernice Spoor's feet and without moving from the spot make the other little foot say pert things in a tempestuous attitude, saying them in dancing language, of course.

DIVING GIRLS WILL SPLASH AROUND HOME PLATE

"Diving Girl Week" is the program at tonight's show at Braves Field next week, with Marcus Low and his field manager, Charles Wagon, putting on a contest among the beach beauties of New England that will make the ball field the scene of blundering swimmers and those not to be mentioned.

Headline trophies and cash prizes will be given out the first nights of the work for these girls who show the best diving form, and who resemble most nearly the diving lines of Venus and Annette Calverman. Then on Saturday night will come the winners' parade and a contest among the victors to see who will receive the Marcus Low trophy.

A big swimming pool will be constructed specially for the contests, and powerful lights will play on the contestants. The pool will be near home plate, which means that every one in the grandstand, which certainly will be very full, will have a good view of the diving.

OPERASCHOOL AT STATE THEATRE

M. Douglas Platter, manager-director of the State Theatre Company, announces that owing to the great success which the State Theatre had last season with its musical productions the management has decided to establish a permanent school for light opera. A director and faculty will be chosen consisting of players of ability and long standing, and these will coach the members of the school (which will be open to all) in the young men and women who are engaged during the day an opportunity to attend the school.

Rehearsals and instructions will be carried out on professional lines which will be necessary in order to give adequate production because it is planned to give a new opera every three weeks during the season beginning towards the end of September and these operas will be put down to about an hour and a half and will be put in the regular State Theatre program.

"LOVE PIKER" SHOWS HERE TOMORROW

After a long absence from the screen, this popular play of childhood will be seen at the Plymouth Theatre tomorrow in "The Love Piker," a new American production, which promises to set up a thrill for movie patrons.

Anita Stewart will be seen as a snobbish society girl who leaves with a young man who has attained eminence through his own efforts that brought her very humble beginnings. They live of care runs smoothly until the girl meets the father of her future in his retirement dwelling. The little against her mischievous and the revivified of his conquest prove incidents that are said to create intense heart interest and comedy.

When published serially in a prominent magazine the story by Frank S. Adams attained considerable popularity and suggested that it would be excellent material for a movie play.

NEXT WEEK'S NEW SHOWS

R. F. KRITIS—Vanderbilt Theatre. The Masterpieces, opening their first season with a new program of musical numbers, also Williams and Vanden, in "A Study in Contrast," Bert Levy, the artist-entertainer; Charles O'Connell and Mary, and a half dozen other features.

CRITIC FINDS WRONG PROP IN FILM

Two inaccuracies have been discovered in the recently performed screen drama, "The Covered Wagon," now being shown at the Majestic Theatre. The inaccuracy is the use of a modern jacket having metal frills in a picture that is dated back to the days of the early west.

PLAYS THAT REMAIN

"THE COVERED WAGON" at the Majestic. (Eleventh week.) The great, untold story of the west, as revealed in Emerson Hough's wonderful novel of the same title, reproduced in picture form, with all the vivid scenes of the story brought out in photographic splendor. Made especially enjoyable by the fine acting of Ernest Terrence and Tully Marshall.

"THE RISE OF ERNEST O'REILLY" at the Tremont. (Eleventh week.) Something to make you forget the approaching summer of dog days and guaranteed to fill your head with the essential whistling tunes of the year. If all musical comedy held to the easy ways of this O'Reilly affair there would be little room for dramatic productions.

DOWLING HAD SERIOUS HOPES

Eddie Dowling, principal player in "Balls, Irons and Mary," the musical comedy opening the Wilbur Theatre on Monday, August 1st, made his first professional appearance as an actor who belonged to "the higher and finer things" in the theatre. Shortly after Dowling's graduation from a high school in Providence, R. I., he organized a little theatre group with the purpose of producing Shakespearean plays. It was Dowling's ambition, like that of so many actors today, to play Hamlet. He hoped to play Hamlet, but when his attention was attracted and he would be selected to join the famous player's company.

Although he has given up the thought of acting "Hamlet," Dowling still hopes to do "the higher and finer things" in musical comedy.

But, Dowling, that Hamilton player of "Balls, Irons and Mary," has been added to the cast of "The Risen of Ernest O'Reilly" at the Tremont Theatre.

Charming Old Fashioned Girls in Race

HAPPERS ALSO ARE LIST

All Seek Atlantic City Free
Trips, $5,000 Trophy and
$10,000 Movie Place

Will a flapper or an old-fashioned girl win the Boston American's CHARMING GIRL tournament?

We frankly confess we don't know. The task of deciding will rest entirely with the artists who will compose the board of judges. But we do know that both bobbed-haired flappers and old-fashioned girls who sport rouge and lipstick are entered in the contest.

It looks as if the judges are going to have a big job on their hands to determine which girl is MOST CHARMING and who is entitled to the free week's trip to Atlantic City during the Fall pageant with champion of her own choice.

PHOTOGRAPHERS ACTIVE.
Hawthorne girls galore were found by the Boston American photographer when he visited City Point, South Boston, and Wollaston Beach. Some of the most attractive young women his eyes have rested upon this season were found at both of these popular seaside resorts. He made snapshots of many of them without cost and all will be entered in the tournament.

Following his visit to Wollaston Beach this afternoon from one to three p. m. the American photographer planned to go to Salisbury Beach tomorrow afternoon at the same period to make free snapshots of winsome maidens who intend to spend the day there. You will find the American photographer on the beach near the main entrance, girls merely approach him and tell him you want to enter the American's big tournament and he will snap you free of charge.

AT REVERE MONDAY
The photographer will visit Revere Beach Monday afternoon from one to three o'clock to make similar pictures. The photographer will be on the beach in front of the State Bathhouse.

One of the most recent entrants is Miss Helen Kelly of No. 318 Codman street, Dorchester. Miss Kelly is an unusually comely young woman and her friends believe she has a good chance to be chosen by the judges as the MOST CHARMING girl. She has a radiant smile that lights entire features.

Another recently entered candidate for the free trip to Atlantic City with all expenses paid for one week, is Miss Dorothy Kennedy, of No. 231 Heath street, Roxbury, whose friends are boosting strenuously for her to win. As the time for entering will be limited, and none accepted after the closing date, which will be a fortnight from the date, the "Charming Girl" editor advises all girls who intend entering to do so at once. Don't wait until the last minute.

WHAT IT MEANS.
The trip to Atlantic City during Pleasant Week, which begins September 8, is going to be a tremendous treat to the girl who wins, for the remainder of her life. She is going to have such a good time that all other weeks' vacations will pale into insignificance compared to it. The railroad fares of herself and mother, or any other chaperon she chooses, will be paid as well as will her hotel bill.

ONE OF THESE MAY BE "MISS BOSTON"

TWO OF THE LATEST ENTRANTS
At left, Miss Dorothy Kennedy of Roxbury and Miss Helen Kelly of Dorchester, who are aspirants for the free trip to Atlantic City, each with her chance to capture the $5,000 gold trophy or a $10,000-a-year job in moving pictures.

MOSQUITO BITE KILLS

NEW JERSEY EDUCATOR

Jersey City, N. J., July 28.—Dr. Henry Snyder, superintendent of schools for the past thirty years, and a noted educator, died early today as a result of the bite of a mosquito.

Dr. Snyder was bitten on the hand while attending a conference of teachers at Ocean City. A few days later he became ill with malaria, which later developed into septic pneumonia. He was 68 years old.

STEALS 5 CENTS; GETS 5 YEARS;

N. Y. GIRL SENT TO PRISON

New York, July 28.—Rose Kramer, 28 years old, must spend five years in Auburn Prison because she stole five cents. Judge Oliver Barker of the Brooklyn, today imposed sentence, when Miss Kramer admitted she had taken a pocketbook containing that amount from Miss Mary Murphy, a shopgirl.

SPONNERS DEFY STONE BARRAGE

"But love is blind, and loves can not see. The devil's politics that they themselves commit!"

If Will Shakespeare were writing those lines today instead of in 1610 or so, he would probably add that sponsors down Lynn Beach way are also deaf and impervious to stones.

Take it from the Rev. F. Lewis Brooks of the Advent Church of Lynn, the couples here holding trysts by moonlight on the sand just do not give a hang for anything, even rocks.

The cleric was told of the beaching parties and so he went to find out what was what.

The slighted made the Reverend Mr. Brooks so angry that he yelled renunciations and threat scenes at the sponsors.

IGNORE STONE BARRAGE.
And the latter just bent back to get with their petting parties. To use the words of Mr. Brooks, the stones did absolutely no good.

Apparently the disparaging criticism of the "Lynn girls" as they are called who wish to reform, conditions on Lynn and Nahant beaches, made little impression on the sponsoring parties, for they gathered in numbers last night as they do every evening.

Conditions on the two mile stretch of sand inland, Mr. Brooks is getting a special sermon and the girls will give the tomorrow at the beach along with illustrations. The subject is "Devil's Commandments."

OFFICIALS ARE RESISTIVE.
The characterization of Lynn and Nahant beaches as "devil's paradise" raised a storm of protest among officials who have the safety of the beach, and they are saying that it is a "Globe as any place can be."

The very serious problem existing there, they say, is not clandestine love trysts, but automobile congestion.

Because of the number of machines cluttering up the road night and afternoon, restrictions have been put in effect prohibiting parking on Nahant road from the State bathhouse to Little Nahant.

American to Snap Beach Photos of Charming Girls.
The American editor of the Boston American, who has no really CHARMING girl less the opportunity of entering the Boston American's big tournament, a photographer from this newspaper will visit nearby beaches and make snapshots free of charge of the beautiful girls who are dispersing themselves beside the ocean waves.

The American photographer will be at the following places from 1 to 3 p. m. on the days named:

Today, Head House, City Point, South Boston.

Saturday, Wollaston Beach, Sunday, Salisbury Beach. Get out your best smile, girls. It may win that free trip to Atlantic City for you.

The biggest news of the day yesterday was the ramming of a destroyer by the transport carrying President Harding and his party.

You will note the eight-column lines on the last regular edition, respectively, of the American, the Globe and the Traveler.

An hour after the story was printed in the American, the Traveler printed an "extra" on it. The story was carried both by the Associated Press and the International News Service, the latter arriving with it first. This is an example of why the American has four news services.

The American gives the big news. Now as to the Corcoran story: We show an edition of Thursday's American. Read the eighth-column line. You will see that the American printed on Thursday, the Globe and Traveler printed on Friday—yesterday—and in their last editions.

Today the Globe and Traveler will undoubtedly print on their front pages the story of how the President's transport rammed the destroyer—the story you read yesterday's American.

News last night twenty-four hours later. When you buy a newspaper you buy news. That is why more people buy the Boston American at three cents than either the Globe or Traveler at two cents.

Finance Board Investigates Firm Whose Head Had Been Under Arrest

Was it absent-mindedness, or what?

The Boston Finance Commission is investigating the circumstances surrounding the payment by the city of $19,949.50—twice—to one firm for a single contract.

The firm that got the two checks was the Holbrook Construction Company, on a job of paving Dorchester street, South Boston.

City Treasurer John J. Curley upon discovery of the error, notified the mistake in order to prevent the city from losing the money repaid by the contractor.

CONTRACTOR ARRESTED.
But it has been established that the senior member of the firm who got the checks, and who is Hugh Holbrook, was arrested September 27, 1922, on a charge of larceny. That charge had to do with the receipt by Mr. Holbrook from the International Trust Company of an extension of credit on representation he had made to the company that he would enable him to meet the lease. It was found guilty, and the case in criminal court, but made had a dozen assignments for the benefit of creditors.

IN BANKRUPTCY.
It is further pointed out that on January 15 of this year the Holbrook company was placed in liquidation. It was said that the Holbrook company, with two assignments still in force, went into bankruptcy, owing $25,000, with no assets.

These and other phases of the case induced the Finance Commission to institute its investigation. The established facts in the case are these:

The contract for the paving of Dorchester street was awarded to the Holbrook company in the Fall of 1922.

In 1922 the Holbrook company was assigned to Warren Bros. Company, with two assignments still in force, went into bankruptcy, owing $25,000, with no assets.

The error was discovered when the auditor's department checked up. When the error was noted, it is said, Mr. Curley promptly ordered down the first National Bank to stop payment. He found the check had been deposited in a Worcester bank two hours after being issued and had already come back through the clearing house. The bank officials waived a protest and issued the check to be cashed. The Worcester bank promptly notified the city to prevent payment on checks drawn by the senior member of the Holbrook firm. Another hour's delay would have cost the city nearly $25,000.

The investigation of the Finance Commission is seeking to establish, among other things, whether the first check sent to the Holbrook firm was approved as required by law.

"Investigations would be useless."

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Clavering and his friend, Dinwiddie, are immediately interested, and the latter receives a shock, declaring that she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He thinks she may be a daughter. Clavering suggests that a society leader, Mrs. Ogden, be asked to solve the mystery. She consents and calls on the fair unknown, but learns nothing. Clavering follows Mary home from the theatre and aids her to get into the house as she has lost her key. She invites him in and tells him she is Countess Josef Zaitany. He nearly guesses her secret.

"PARTLY. I don't think that if you were not just what you are I'd care a hang. Other people's affairs don't excite me, I've outgrown mere inquisitiveness."

"That is rather beside the point, isn't it? It all comes back to this—that you are afraid of falling in love with me."

"You don't look as if it would do me any good if I did."

"Why not let it go at that?"

"I think the best thing I can do is to get out altogether."

She rose swiftly and came close to him. "Oh, no! I'm not going to let you go. You are the only person on this continent who interests me. I shall have your friendship. And you must admit that I have done nothing—"

"Oh, no, you have done nothing. You've only to be." He wondered that he felt no desire to touch her. She looked lovely and appealing and very young. But she radiated power, and that chin could not melt.

He asked abruptly: "How many men have you had in love with you?"

"Oh!" She spread out her hands vaguely. "How can one remember?" And that look he most disliked, that look of ancient wisdom, disillusioned and contemptuous, came into her eyes.

"You are too young to have had so very many. And the war took a good slice out of your life. I don't suppose you were infatuated smooched-up men or even doctors and surgeons."

"Certainly not. But, when one marries young—and one begins to live early in Europe."

"How often have you loved, yourself?"

"That question I could answer specifically, but I shall not."

He calculated rapidly. "Four years of war. Assuming that you are thirty-two, although sometimes you look older and sometimes younger, and that you married at seventeen, that would leave you—well, eleven years before the war began. I suppose you didn't fall in love once a year."

"Oh, no, I am a faithful soul. Say three years and a third to each attack."

"You talk at times singularly like an American for one who left here at the age of two."

"Remember that my family went with me. Moreover, Mary and I always talked English together—American if you like. She was intensely proud of being an American. We read all the American novels, as I told you. They are an education in the idiom, permanent and passing. Moreover, I was always meeting Americans."

"Were you? Well, the greater number of them must be in New York at the present moment. No doubt they would be glad to relieve your loneliness."

"I am not in the least lonely and I have not the least desire to see any of them. Only one thing would induce me—if I thought it would be possible to raise a large amount of money for the widows and children of Austria."

"Ah! You would take the risk, then?"

"Risk? They were the most casual acquaintances. They probably have forgotten me long since. I had not left Hungary for a year before the war, and one rarely meets an American in Pesh Society—two or three other American women had married Hungarians, but they preferred Vienna and I preferred Europeans. I knew them only slightly. . . . Moreover, there are many Zaitany's. It is an immense connection."

"You mean you believe you would be safe," he caught her up.

"Mon dieu! You make me feel as if I were on the stand. But yes, quite safe."

"And you really believe that any one could ever forget you?"

"I am not as vain as you seem to think."

"You have every right to be. Suppose—suppose that some-

GIFT AT PARTY.
DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

my girl friend has invited me and a few friends to go to a surprise birthday party.

The girl is arranging this party for her boy friend. Is it proper to give a gift, as it is a surprise party? Both boys and girls have different couples or just the one? C. R. R.

ANSWER: No reason why you should bring a gift to this party. However, if you find that other girls are going to bring gifts, take a simple, inexpensive trifle, such as a book, a handkerchief, or a carton of cigarettes.

DEAR MRS. BRECKMAN:

Should a young man, while walking with two ladies in the street, walk on to the sidewalk and let the ladies walk on the street? Is it more proper to walk between the two ladies?

W. Z. D.

HE should walk on the sidewalk, the pavement nearest the curb.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If a lump of sugar is put in a painted receptacle after the pot has been washed inside with a cloth, the sugar will soak up any remaining moisture and prevent the pot from becoming rusty.

Place a week's tea leaves in a pail and pour over them a quart of boiling water. Leave for one hour, then strain and bottle. This liquor is excellent for cleaning varnished wood, linoleum, windows and mirrors.

When a sponge becomes greasy after several hours in use, wash it in water to which a little ammonia has been added, or in strong salt and water. Rinse in cold or tepid water.

When steel knives and forks have become tainted with fish or the smell may be removed by rubbing them with fresh orange lemon peel.

EUGENE CRIQUI A TRUE SOLDIER

They make 'em just as game in France as they do any where in the world. Eugene Criqui proved that while he was losing his featherweight title to Johnny Dundee. He had proved his courage before, in the World War, where a bullet in the chin and sundry other wounds couldn't stop him.

But there's a great difference between the courage that carries a man into battle and the gameness that holds up a boxer in the ring. The soldier has the impetus of companionship. He has to go ahead whether he will or no. The scrapper is a man without a friend. He's all by himself in the squared circle, excepting the enemy who is punching him.

Easiest thing in the world for a battler to take a "dive" after he knows he's licked. Lots of 'em do it, but not Criqui. The little Frenchman is the gamest bird that has come to these shores in the whole history of the ring.

From the instant that he was flattened in the very first round he knew that his title was gone, that nothing awaited ahead but sure defeat. He had done his bit. He had earned his share of the purse by appearing in the ring.

Nobody could have criticized him had he remained on the floor while that tenth second was being counted off. But he struggled to his feet and carried the fight right back to Dundee.

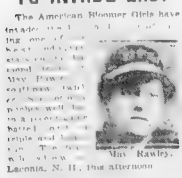

Again in the second he twice hit the canvas, and hardly a soul in the big throng thought he would ever get up. But he got up he did, and a few rounds after that was fighting better than he had in the first minute.

Loss of blood and a cruel bombardment of jarring punches wore down his remarkable vitality. But he wouldn't quit. He kept coming back for more. Several times the referee asked him to give up the futile fight. But he grinned his blood-stained grin and kept taking it. His seconds wanted to toss in the sponge, but he wouldn't let 'em.

At the end of fifteen long, weary rounds he was still swinging tired punches, and hoping for the accident—that never happened—that might keep him his title.

He didn't wear his ring crown long. But he honored it in the wearing. There never was a gamer bird than Eugene Criqui, soldier of France.

SLAYER OF TWO POLICEMEN IS NEAR ARREST

New York, July 28 (I.N.S.)—Solution of the murder of Patrolmen Charles Reynolds and Frank Romanelli, shot down as they attempted to arrest a man and woman occupants of a speeding taxicab, after they had been attracted by the woman's cries

Reconstructing the killing detectives conclude that the murderer was a man who feared the scandal of arrest while with a woman companion.

Witnesses have established that the woman was young, pretty and exceptionally well groomed.

"We have established the fact that the woman in the case had been drinking," Inspected Coughlin said.

Police believe the man and his companion were both married.

The man, police say, was attempting to attack the woman when he

When Reynolds and Romanelli stopped the cab the woman and man both pleaded not to be arrested insisting they were husband and wife. "We will just take you around to the police station and investigate this," the officers said. A moment later the man in the cab shot and killed both officers and escaped.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Jiggs Gets Rid of the Piano

By George McManus

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury
HUNDREDS of homesick couples throughout the United States have organized and are making a big campaign for one member.

THIS association is a wonderful thing and has put sponsors on a business basis.

NO girl who belongs to this order will be allowed to hold a fellow's hand unless he has a seal-up coat.

THIS organization also demands that fathers and mothers keep out of the parlor between 4 p.m. and midnight.

IT also prohibits little brothers and sisters from taking more than a nickel for keeping their mouth closed.

AND under no circumstances will they allow your sweetheart's baby brother to climb up into your lap with any ease in the fingers.

IT is also against their rules for him to hammer on the chair with his feet in the morning.

THE rule holds good just the same whether the watch is paid for or not.

THE bylaws plainly state that it is not necessary for more than two girls to be burning in the parlor at night.

AND on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, it's only necessary to have one.

A NOTHER strict rule is that family album must be kept locked in the coat closet at all times.

THE father of your sweetheart is allowed to tell two jokes and ask you for one cigar and no more.

HOWEVER, the association lets you get as many cigars and cigarettes as possible from the old man.

IF he hasn't got any cigarettes or cigars then he must give you the money.

THE rules of the organization force your sweetheart to serve you with a hearty meal before you go home.

IT can either be a dinner or a breakfast. It all depends upon what time you leave.

SHOULD you desire to stay until one or two o'clock in the morning, the association prohibits the father from making any sarcastic remarks about the time.

IF this organization meets with success among the street folk, they plan to branch out and run the married couples, too.

DON'T MAKE YOUR PLAY TIME A BEVERLY STRAIN.

IT seems that you are always pressed for time in your workaday time you have to hustle. In recreation periods you are kept up to the highest pitch.

You want that pleasure till you are tired mentally and physically. How long is your human machine going to hold out with such abuse?

Why travel always in high gear? Why not drop into intermediate part of the time?

When the day's work is done, who not relax?

The harder you work yourself, the more nervous energy and muscular reaction you expend in your pleasure. The less you have for your job of a waking living.

You have reached the condition where you never feel rested. This is the result of work at your daily job.

You really need a rest for that regular job, but you continue to work at something which does not bring you a rest or use that improves you physically and unites you for a better living.

Why make your play time such a severe strain?

MR. GALLAGHER AND MR. SHEAN

THE Boston American awards each week to original Gail Gallagher & Shean drawing to the reader who sends in the best Gallagher & Shean lyric.

One is selected for publication in this column every day, and on Saturday the selection of the best one is made and a drawing is mailed the winner.

Today's selection, which will be among the six from which this week's winner is selected, is by Stanley Miller, No. 424 Newbury street, Boston.

Oh, Mr. Shean, Oh, Mr. Shean! What makes you act so contrary and mean?

I know where you can see A beautiful man than me.

Try your hand at it. Address your lyrics to Gallagher & Shean, Boston American, No. 40 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

Bobbie and His Pa

By Wm. F. Kirk

THIS morning I rushed all the way to school in four minutes & when I came home I found I told Pa how fast I runned to school.

That's the stuff, Bobbie, and Pa. No boy ever registered running to school, Bobbie, and Pa, but many a boy registered running the other way, and Pa.

Bobbie is a lot like me, and Ma. When I was a mere slip of a girl I used to trip little all the way to school, and Ma. I fear I can't not do that now.

I will say you clobbered, and Pa. If you tried to trip little now, and Pa, you would trip & fall, Pa, and Ma, you tripping anywhere now, and Pa. He He.

I do not think you will be much of a slip at tripping any more yourself, and Ma.

What is it, a slip? and Ma. A slip is a slim little creature, Bobbie, and Ma. Something like a slip of a Pay, and Ma. Something like what your mother's father sent, Bobbie, and Ma.

I am not sure that which I sent was, and Pa. That is true. That when I was Bobbie's age, and Pa. I was just as a slip, Pa, and Ma. I cannot remember with me everywhere I sent, and Pa.

With you out trip a few of these snubnoses nowadays, and Ma. Bobbie, at the breakfast table, Bobbie, and Pa. Do I look that funny? and Pa.

Then, and Pa. I wish you would remind me of it any time I look that way, and Pa. I will at once cheer up & smile, and Pa. I know of no good reason why I should look solemn, and Pa. I have everything in this world to make me happy, and Pa. A dear little wife, a sweet-faced child that is all the time asking me for love, & a lot of time to buy & everything, and Pa. I will cheer up & face the future like a hero, and Pa. That will I do, in very sooth, and Pa.

What is sooth? A sooth is a little imp of a boy that is all the time jabbering & jabbering, Bobbie, and Pa.

All right, Pa. I need I rushed all the way home just to see you & Ma, & now I am going to run just as fast the other way, I need, & never I will drop ever & die from running so fast, I need, & then you will be sorry you called me a slip.

I not maybe that will make Pa feel better, but Pa was looking out of the window & he didn't even hear me.
